

As they traveled, they came to a mountain called Mount Sinai. God wanted to talk to Moses and give the Israelites some important rules to live by. Moses climbed up the mountain, and there was thunder and lightning all around. It was a very special moment because God was there.

The Israelites were slaves in Egypt, but God sent Moses to rescue them. As they traveled, God was always with them. During the day, God appeared as a pillar of cloud, and at night, as a pillar of fire.

At the top of the mountain, God gave Moses the Ten Commandments, which taught the Israelites how to love God and be kind to each other.

Moses brought them down to the people and shared God's message with them.
